

I'm writing in opposition to the FCC imposing the "established business relationship" on Indiana consumers. These companies have the ability to contact us via mail. There are other alternatives for most of these companies to reach me. I get regular e-mails and mail regarding their offers. I can review those offers at my convenience and deal with them accordingly. There calling us at home to make a sales pitch would be a disruption in both my wife's studying and my work.